

Daily Devotion For June 27, 2021

“This is the day that the Lord has made, we will rejoice and be glad in it.”
Psalm 118:24

As I was thinking about the passing of Johnny Montoya the last few days, I was thinking of all the many health issues and challenges he faced day to day. I remember when Sherry first started to come to church in her wheelchair after her diagnosis of Transverse Myelitis, he said, that is so sad, she is so young. I’ve lived a good life. Johnny understood what it was like for Sherry to be in a wheelchair because he had been in a wheelchair for many years. I always appreciated his positive attitude. Always gracious and smiling.

So often we focus on the disappointments of yesterday or the uncertainties of tomorrow and miss God’s matchless gift to us Today! Despite Johnny’s health issues, he always was smiling and had a positive attitude.

Thought For Today: God made today. Let’s celebrate it and make the most of every opportunity to live life and serve others in His name.

Today’s Prayer Focus: Take time to praise God for this is the day that He has made! Continue to pray this week’s prayer fuel. Deo Volente.
