

Daily Devotion For June 28, 2020

¹³ Now listen, you who say, "Today or tomorrow we will go to this or that city, spend a year there, carry on business and make money." ¹⁴ Why, you do not even know what will happen tomorrow. What is your life? You are a mist that appears for a little while and then vanishes." James 4:13-14

Today I received the bill from the Auto Club for Sherry and my car insurances. Last summer as I was driving home from my morning swim workout at MPC a truck ran a red light and hit me on the passenger side. At that time I was grateful that Sherry was not with me and I was also grateful that both the driver who hit me and I had insurance.

Although it is great to have insurance, nothing can protect us from having an accident, getting sick, or having major bills piling up on us. Trials in life can suddenly come upon us. We read in James 4:13-14 ¹⁴ Why, you do not even know what will happen tomorrow. What is your life? You are a mist that appears for a little while and then vanishes." James says our life is like a mist that is here one moment and vanishes in the next. That is why it is important to place our faith and trust in the Lord now while we can.

Our security is not found in an insurance policy or in having wealth or possessions, but in knowing that God offers us eternal life in his kingdom forever and ever.

Thought For Today: If you knew that you only had a year to live, how would you be investing your time? What are you placing your security in? Is your security in God and the promises of His Word?

Today's Prayer Focus: Today, thank God for His free gift of eternal life? Continue to pray for strength for John Mitchell and comfort for the Yamanishi/Omoto families as the passing of May Omoto, Setsuko's sister in law. Continue to add this week's prayer fuel to your daily devotions. Deo Volente.
