

Daily Devotion For September 14, 2021

10 But the day of the Lord will come like a thief. The heavens will disappear with a roar; the elements will be destroyed by fire, and the earth and everything done in it will be laid bare." 2 Peter 3:10

Sunday during our Fellowship Time, Bill Bevier was sharing with us about his upcoming move to Hawaii. He mentioned that his family has been living in their home on Franklin Street for 46 years. That is a long time to accumulate things. Now, his task is to find what to take to a home that is half the size of the Monterey home.

I recall that every time I have moved I needed a bigger vehicle to transport all the things I had accumulated through the years. In 2 Peter 3:10, Peter offers us a penetrating and sober assessment of the real value of our earthly accumulations. He tells us that one day they will all disappear. On that day there will be no trunks, trailers, or U-Hauls in that day. All the stuff we have accumulated over a lifetime will disappear.

Thought For Today: Are you focused on the eternal things today? Those things that have eternal value? Is your life devoted to pursuing Christ and His kingdom. Or are you stuck in the pursuit of acquiring more earthly stuff. In the end, Peter tells us that it will all go up in smoke.

Today's Prayer Focus: Pray that the Lord will turn your heart to the things that matter, those things with eternal value. Continue to pray this week's prayer fuel. Deo Volente.
