

Daily Devotion For October 3, 2021

"I was glad when they said to me, "let us go to the house of the Lord."
Psalm 127:1

For today's daily devotion I was going to write about encouraging people to attend our zoom worship service. But then I realized that by doing so, I'd be "preaching to the choir." Most of those who read these daily devotions are already attending church or at least our zoom services. Some millennials and Generation Z'ers may not even know what the choir is...because so many churches don't have choirs anymore.

However, what does the saying "preaching to the choir" mean? And is it a good thing or maybe a not-so-good thing?

Preaching to the choir usually means to preach to those who already agree with you or who are already active in the church. These are the ones who are all in with what you are saying, teaching, or preaching. If you get any "amens" when speaking, many of them will come from this group.

So, when I say that attending church service is important and obedience to the 4th Commandment that God gave to Moses I'm sure most of you will be on zoom tomorrow. The Psalmist said in Psalm 127:1, "I was glad when they said to me, "let us go to the house of the Lord." I hope that you can say that as well.

Thought For Today: Hebrews 10:25 says, "Let us not give up meeting together as some are in the habit of doing." Hope to see you on zoom today, or am I preaching to the choir?"

Today's Prayer Focus: Pray that our El Estero Zoom Worship Service will lift up and exalt the name of our Lord Jesus and give him the glory due His name. Deo Volente.
