“My house shall be called a house of prayer for the nations.” Isaiah 56:7

During our fellowship time following our Sunday Zoom Worship Service, Joyce Gota reminded us of the importance of praying for the healing of our nation. More than any other time in my life, that is so true. As we listen to the news, somehow it seems all bad. The rising number of infections from the Coronavirus worldwide is now over 10 million and in the U.S. it has surpassed 2 ½ million with over 125,000 deaths. Add to that 42 million Americans are unemployed and facing financial hardship. Political upheaval in this election year and the fight for social justice and racial equality are just a few of the challenges facing our nation.

As I reflect upon this, I wonder how it will all play out in the infinite Sovereign plan of God. What will happen to America? Where will our nation be in 5, 10, 20 years from now. What kind of world are we leaving for our children and grandchildren. How can our nation survive and be saved from this current pandemic in our midst. Questions, worry, and fear permeate our culture and many are asking, is there any hope? As Christians we do have hope, and simply put, that hope is in the powerful gift of prayer.

As God’s people, it is incumbent upon us to pray. To pray without ceasing on behalf of our nation.

Thought For Today: Today, simply put, PRAY for the healing of our nation.

Today’s Prayer Focus: PRAY for the healing of our nation. Check out the updated prayer fuel and add it to your daily devotional time. Deo Volente.
