

Daily Devotion For March 19, 2021

“Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Write in a book all the words that I have spoken to you.” Jeremiah 30:2

March 16th, marked one year since I started writing the daily devotionals. I know that I have missed a few weeks due to taking vacation time, but looking back at this past year, the exercise of writing a daily devotion has been very helpful to my personal spiritual life. Sherry tells me that the devotionals are like a journal, chronicling what we have gone through during one of the most challenging years most of have faced due to the Coronavirus pandemic.

You may have noticed that many of my devotions reflect what God has been doing or teaching me. One of the “treasures” that Kazuko left for me was her diary which chronicled the joys and trials of her life. Yet, through the struggles she went through, she always remembered that God is good, that He is Sovereign and in control.

Thought For Today: Do you have a journal in which you can record the lessons God is teaching or has taught you? If not, take time today to write out what God has been doing in your life. Try to make this a daily practice for the next three weeks. They say that it takes three weeks to turn a practice into a habit. Try it and see what God does in your life.

Today’s Prayer Focus: Take time to pray for Bill Bevier’s mother Ann who undergoes heart surgery today. Continue to pray this week’s prayer fuel. Deo Volente.
