

Daily Devotion For January 28, 2022

“Step out of traffic, take a long, loving look at me, your High God.” Psalm 46:10 (The Message)

In my message on Sunday, I spoke of how growing up we would drive through the towns of Gilroy and Morgan Hill on the way to San Jose. Often times we would have to wait and wait because of the traffic lights. Then someone came up with the idea to “bypass” those towns and put in a new Highway 101.

For the residents of Gilroy and Morgan Hill, I’m sure that they felt “bypassed” as they no longer had the tourist or business that they had before. For the past few months my internet has been slow and inconsistent. I have had to wait to connect to the Internet or what many people have referred to as the Information Super Highway. Finally, yesterday I called Xfinity to help resolve the issue and they said that I needed a new modem. That the modem that I had was old.

Then I had to go through the process of returning my old modem to the Comcast store and get a new modem connected. That process was confusing. I often feel that in this age of modern technology that I am getting “bypassed.” Psalm 46:10 is “The Message” translation tells us to step out of traffic and take a long loving look at God. Though we live in a changing world, the one thing that does not change is the nature and character of God.

Thought For Today: Do you ever feel as though you are getting left behind or “bypassed” in this age of new and modern technology? What seems confusing to you is second nature to the next generation. Is it frustrating to you and how do you handle it? Remember to keep your focus on an unchanging God.

Today’s Prayer Focus: Praise God that he never changes, that He is the same yesterday, today, and forever. Deo Volente.