“In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth.” Genesis 1:1

Last week I had the opportunity to get away for a quick trip to Yosemite National Park. Through the years of taking family vacations there, walking the John Muir Trail, and spending time hiking and rock climbing while in college, Yosemite has been and will always be one of my most favorite places on earth. Yosemite has been called “nature’s grand cathedral” for its soaring granite cliffs, sparkling waterfalls, lush meadows and abundant wildlife.

In 1975 as I walked the 225 mile John Muir Trail, every day I would ask the question, “is there a God who created all of this beauty for me to enjoy?” It was about that time that I borrowed my college roommate’s bible and read the first 10 words of the bible found above in Genesis 1:1. That was the answer to the question I had asked as I walked the Muri Trail. It was God who created all the beauty.

It was a couple days later that I asked Jesus Christ to come into my life as my Savior and Lord.

Thought For Today: Take time to look around you today. All the beauty of God’s creation was made for you to enjoy. How will you enjoy God’s creation today?

Today’s Prayer Focus: Take time to praise God for his creation. Deo Volente.
