

Daily Devotion For March 30, 2022

“No one can serve two masters. Either you will hate the one and love the other, or you will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and money.” — Matthew 6:2

In my devotion yesterday I shared how pleasantly surprised I was to receive an unexpected monetary gift from MPC for having received my Covid-19 vaccinations as I registered for spring classes.

For most people, money makes an impact on daily life. Whether it is through the form of a job, financial decision-making or habits, money is a driving factor behind many of the decisions we make each day. Although money is not necessarily a bad thing, it can be easy to let it consume us and guide our actions when only God should have that power over our lives.

Matthew 6:24 talks about two masters, God and money. We cannot serve both. We have the opportunity to choose who gets our devotion and attention. So, do you follow God’s word and His will when it comes to finances? Or do you follow your own desires when it comes to money?

Thought For Today: Money can become an obsession that can take our eyes off God and His work in our lives. It is easy to constantly want more and more. However, in view of eternity, money is meaningless. We can never find true satisfaction from money or from anything outside of God; we can only find this completion through our salvation and relationship with Christ Jesus.

Today’s Prayer Focus: Pray that God will give you the proper attitude towards money and that you would be a good steward of that which God has blessed you with. Deo Volente.
