

Daily Devotion For March 19, 2023

"The floods have lifted up, O Lord, The floods have lifted up their voice, The floods lift up their pounding waves." Psalm 93:3

The immense amount of rain that we have been having here on the Central Coast has even made the National News. Most of the major news networks have had reporters in Monterey chronicling the broken levy's and flooding in Pajaro and throughout the farm lands of the county.

Watching the news reports you can see the heavy pounding of the waves in Capitola and Santa Cruz and the flooding that is occurring throughout the county.

The evening news showed where people in the Santa Cruz mountains were putting up sand bags and the after effects of roads being washed away and stranding people. Hopefully the levy's around Pajaro will be repaired soon to prevent another overflow of flooding. Hopefully the levy's will hold and people will be safe.

Storms may come, winds will blow, and flood waters may rise but our safety lies behind the sea walls of God's never ending love.

Thought For Today: No matter what floods may come your way, you can stand confident behind the levy of God's love. Isaiah 43:2 says, "When you pass through the waters, I will be with you, and through the rivers, they shall not overflow you." Remember when you go through the floods of your life that the promise of God is that He will be with you to protect you.

Today's Prayer Focus: Praise God that Kiku Kuwatani is home recovering from her recent hospital stay. Bob McIntyre's Glaucoma surgery was successful as was Ellie Hattori's eye surgery. Continued prayers for those who are in need of God's comfort and healing. Deo Volente.
